

AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES BEGINS NEW SERVICE FOR STUDENTS

Writing and Research Assistance Program (WRAP) Designed to attract new AAS minors

African American Studies is pleased to announce the establishment of a writing and research assistance program for undergraduate students working on topics that deal with the black experience. Teaching assistants in African American Studies along with a pool of volunteer graduate students from multiple disciplines will schedule time to advise those students who are seeking writing assistance, topical suggestions, or reference information on the African diaspora. All undergraduates interested in utilizing this new student support service are encouraged to call the office of AASRP at 257-3593.
