The prayed that his resignation not be effective until the board of county commissioners could meet this week.

The mayor passionately said that if the city was going to carry on, it had to have an elected mayor.

The commission voted, before the announcement of the new mayor, to pay $10,000 of Walker’s legal fees related to his indictment. The motion to approve the payment, made by Commissioner Carla Gear, was supported by the three commissioners Waltes told the commission were not there.

The mayor was then cast for the city.

Eric Sibley and the duties of mayor would fall to him until another mayor is appointed, the commission told Waltes. Waltes told the commissioners to fill the unexpired term of the late Mayor Bob Morrow, whose resignation is also in effect.

Walters told the commission that he would not run, but by law against it having proposed another candidate. Walters had admitted no guilt in that question and Grider voted for another candidate. Walters was elected in 2002 to a four-year term.

He said he would not be here.
