Drum Major for Peace Award 2008
Nomination Criteria
Sponsored by the Lexington Commission on Race Relations

“LCRR will help develop strong and healthy interracial relations in Lexington and assure that residents are treated justly.”

Presented to an Adult Male, an Adult Female, a Middle or High School Youth under age 18, and an Organization

This is the fourth year the Drum Major for Peace final awards will be presented at the annual Reconciliation Breakfast on March 6, 2008 from 7:15-8:45 a.m. at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Patterson Ballroom

The Lexington Commission for Race Relations, the University of Kentucky College Social Work are joined with the Lexington-Fayette County Human Rights Commission, Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government, Lexington Habitat for Humanity, The Humanitarium, and University of Kentucky Office of International Affairs as co-sponsors.

Reconciliation – “transforming our human community through building new connections and restoring broken relationships.”

Please nominate an individual or organization who has met the following criteria:

1. How has this individual or organization demonstrated reconciliation and peacemaking in their actions and impacted the community of Lexington to make it a better place?
2. How has this individual or organization shown concern or provided services to diverse individuals or populations? (Please be specific)
3. How has this individual or organization embraced the values of civility, compassion, non-violence, restoration, and bringing diverse individuals to common ground?

Finalists will have a short biography presented at the Reconciliation Breakfast on March 6, 2008. Please write a short biography of your 2008 Nominee for the Drum Major for Peace Award that needs to be submitted by February 25, 2008 with this application.
