Della V. Mosley is a doctoral candidate in Counseling Psychology and a scholar-activist in the movement for Black Lives. She is a MHSAS fellow in the American Psychological Association’s Minority Fellowship Program. Della received her M.S. in School Counseling from The John Hopkins University in 2011 and her Ed.S. in Counseling Psychology from the University of Kentucky in 2014. For the last few years Della has offered culturally mindful counseling services in university counseling center settings. Her research tends to focus on the processes of oppression (race-, gender-, and sexuality-based) and liberation, particularly among Black youth. Della’s dissertation, Exploring Critical Consciousness, Facilitating Black Liberation, explores the processes of critical consciousness development among Black Lives Matter activists and is guided by Drs. Danelle Stevens-Watkins and Candice Crowell. Della also engages in social justice advocacy through managing the website www.blmactivism.com and facilitating healing justice interventions for communities suffering from identity-based traumas.
