UK Advising Network

The purpose of the UK Advising Network is to promote the quality of academic advising at the University of Kentucky and to support the professional growth of academic advisors. The Network facilitates cooperation and exchange of information among persons who perform advising functions. Founded in 1986 and officially sanctioned in 2003, the Advising Network also works to provide the Associate Provost for Undergraduate Education and the University Senate Chair with sound proposals and commentary regarding University policies and procedures which are directly related to the advising and counseling of students and to the practices of enrollment management.

Membership:
Membership in the Advising Network is open to all individuals employed at the University of Kentucky. This includes, but is not limited to, academic advisors, faculty members, administrators, counselors, and others whose interests and work are related to academic advising. All members are eligible to vote and hold office.

Employees of the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) are welcome as associate members. Associate members may participate in meetings and events but are without voting and office-holding privileges.

Membership is established by registration with the secretary and must be renewed annually.

The Advising Network meets roughly once a month during the academic year. Special events include the Ken Freedman Outstanding Advisor Award luncheon, a winter breakfast meeting and Day of Service.
