

I have been sorting through cataloging and uploading to the UK server a large number of course-related materials that I created over my 39-year career at the University of Kentucky. These fall into three groups:

Introductory agricultural economics (GEN 101 or AEC 101). These are links to the 620 color slides for Economics of Food and Agriculture, Third Edition on <http://ageconsearch.umn.edu> and sets of Powerpoint slides for each of the 17 individual chapters. To access the detailed links these materials use either the htm or the pdf link, below

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/efa/efa.htm>

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/efa/efa.pdf>

Intermediate agricultural economics (AEC303). These are links to e-downloads and paper copies of Applied Economics: Production, Consumption and Markets. Included here are individual spreadsheet files used in creating all of the charts and tables in the book, as well as many completed spreadsheets to accompany the spreadsheet exercises in the book. Go to either of these links

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/am/am.htm>

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/am/am.pdf>

Agricultural Production Economics (AEC 620). These are links to e-downloads and paper copies of Agricultural Production Economics, Second Edition. There are also links to many spreadsheets I developed teaching this class over the years, a Powerpoint presentation, the LP in the book solved on a spreadsheet, and working SAS code that can be pasted into the PC SAS editor and made to construct 3D wire-grid production surfaces. Follow either of these links:

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/ap/ap.htm>

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/ap/ap.pdf>

As of today, I have most of what I have written with respect to journal articles, research, and working papers available the ageconsearch site. Just search on "Debertin." There are 89 documents listed. jstor.org has my AJAE articles not on ageconsearch, where there are 332 documents listed to me, although some of this is things like editor reports and abstracts of selected papers.

Getting all of this working has been a very large and ongoing project. Please let me know at ddeberti@uky.edu if you run into dead links or other issues in accessing the materials. I have e-copies of practically everything I have written in ag. econ. Let me know if you are unable to find something.

These contents are at

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/am/dld.htm>

or

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/am/dld.pdf>

A tribute to Joe Havlicek (PDF files of Joe Havlicek's class notes in econometrics and matrix algebra).

<http://www.uky.edu/~deberti/hav.pdf>

David L. Debertin

Professor emeritus of agricultural economics,
University of Kentucky

ddeberty@uky.edu

(author, "Building Wealth Slowly" at bookstores everywhere. e-download of that one not up,...yet.)