Student Computing Services

Severe Weather Policy

If the University of Kentucky experiences severe winter weather that leads the UK administration to close or implement Plan B status, Student Computing Services will follow by closing all computer labs except the William T. Young Computer Lab.

The computer labs will resume normal operations when Plan B ends. For example if the University of Kentucky calls for a Plan B 2 hour delay, all SCS labs will open at 10:00 am.

If the University decides to close early due to severe weather and night classes are cancelled, all Student Computing Services labs except the William T. Young Lab will close early and match the University's closing time.

For information concerning University of Kentucky closing or delays, please check www.uky.edu or http://uknow.uky.edu/
