

Public Outreach

- There have been thirteen presentations to local geological societies, government agencies, academic conferences, etc.
- KGS has made eleven formal presentations to professional conferences
- Four presentations to local officials.

- We have had eight news releases
- Forty three news articles published in at least twelve newspapers and newsletters

- We have also have had coverage on numerous web pages and blogs including the project's own web page
- And we have received coverage on local television stations

The KGS introduced the project to about fifty people on April 28, 2008 at the Hancock County Development Center during a meeting of the Hancock County Fiscal Court.

- Prior to our deep seismic investigations we held another public meeting in conjunction with Hancock Fiscal Court at the courthouse for approximately twenty four people on October 27, 2008
