

† PPH 355 SOCIOLOGY OF HEALTH AND ILLNESS.

PPH 499 POPULATION HEALTH CAPSTONE (Subtitle required). (3)

This course provides an integrative experience for Population Health majors in their junior or senior year. The seminar format fosters integration of the program's interdisciplinary coursework, while providing the opportunity to focus on a particular area of interest within the topical theme of the seminar. Students will engage in a variety of activities designed to increase their understanding of the theoretical and methodological approaches that characterize the Population Health perspective. They will then use this perspective to develop, or to critically analyze, a project that addresses health change. The course will consist of seminar sessions, smaller peer group meetings, and individualized tutorial sessions. Students will learn to critically and respectfully engage with the work of their peers and effectively communicate the results of their projects. Prereq: Junior or Senior standing in Population Health; or consent of instructor.